LEADERSHIP EMBODIMENT

Our Mission Statement

To offer simple, effective tools that can rehabilitate our altruism and inspiration in order to work on behalf of justice and equality for all people with greater presence, confidence, and compassion.

What we do?

We study the body. We study how stress responses arise.

By practicing quick, simple exercises we gain access to more choices responding to a given situation.

Working with the body directly is a straightforward way of accessing the more skillful, effective and compassionate responses to stress.

Why?

Research tells us that 70% of communication is non-verbal.

Children and animals know before we do when we are sad, mad, glad or afraid which means our reactions show up in the body before they come to conscious awareness.

Leadership presence is felt through non-verbal communication. We aspire to be more centered, mindful, and compassionate as leaders, but return again and again to unskillful reactions and habits, especially when stressed or when faced with conflict.

How?

To create simple and accelerated learning we use the “LE stress simulator”.

By applying mild physical pressure during specific exercises, we can study the individual stress response and practice recovering to a more centered state while still under pressure.

LECT PROGRAM PRICING: R55 000 (R52 000 EARLY BIRD DISCOUNT OFFERED IF PAYMENT IS MADE BY 31 AUGUST 2018).
